WASHINGTON NEWS.

Objections to Members of the Tariff Commission.

General Disappointment in the President's Selection.

Their Confirmation by the Senate Uncertain.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The tariff commission will probably be confirmed by the senate to-morrow, although there will be considerable opposition manifested in various quarters. The appointments do not give general satisfaction to the senators. A few gentlemen like Bayard, for example, expected the president would select as commissioners able and thorough experts, such as David A. Wells, J. S. Moore, Ed. W. Atkinson, and others of a similar character. Bayard voted for the bill and advocated its passage with this idea in mind, and he is grievously disappointed. The great objection urged against the commission is that it is composed of comparatively unknown men, and certain special interests are represented, to the exclusion of others. The president, in selecting the commissioners, endeavored to avoid choosing men conspicuously identified with special interests, and at the same time secure the services of practical economists to make investigations and a revision of the tariff. Phelps, of Missouri, has positively refused to serve on the commission, and a new man must be nominated in his stead. The finance committee of the senate, to whom the nominations were referred, agreed to report them favorably, Bayard and Beck, the only two democrats, voting in the negative. There was such a feeling of opposition to the appointments on the democratic side that a caucus of democratic senators was called this afternoon to see if the united opposition to the confirmation of the nominees could not be arranged. It was soon found that this scheme was impracticable. Senator Brown, of Georgia, had recommended the appointment of ex-Senator Underwood, of Georgia, and Senator Jones had recommended the appointment of Mr. Kenner, the Louisiana sugar planter. There were other senators who had joined in the recommendation for appointment of other members of the commission.

Immediately after the adjournment of the senate, twenty-four democratic members assembled in a caucus for the purpose of interchanging views in regard to the fitness of the president's nomination of tariff commissioners. No attempt was made to secure caucus action, and at the conclusion of the conference (which lasted one hour and a half) every senator was left free to vote in executive session. It was developed, however, that the democratic members of the senate are practically unanimous in holding that the commission is unfairly constituted and should be rejected. The ground was taken by nearly all the speakers who voted for the commission bill, that the proposed members of the commission are wholly inconsistent with the avowed purposes of the bill, which contemplated impartial investigation and looked to recommendations that would be free from suspicions of self interest. It was asserted that two of the nominees, Hayes, of Massachusetts, and Garland, of Illinois, are salaried officers in the protective high tariff association, and that Porter is a stipendiary of the same organization. Oliver, of Pennsylvania, and Kenner, of Louisiana, were criticised as favoring protection for special interests, and who might well be expected to combine with the above named members in the interest of the high tariff. General Underwood of Georgia was referred to as "an obscure old man," nominated at the instance of Georgia protectionists, and Ambler of Ohio—whom Senator Pendleton declared had never been heard of until nominated for a place on the commission although regarded to some extent as of uncertain quality, was generally believed by members of the caucus to be a friend of the high tariff. The seventh gentleman nominated for membership, Phelps of Missouri, was spoken of as a tariff reformer. It was also announced he had declined. So far as can be learned there are only two of the democratic senators willing to vote for the confirmation of the commissioners, Brown of Georgia and Jones of Louisiana, both of whom feel measurably bound to do so by reason of their having respectively recommended two of the members appointed. On the other hand it is understood that Van Wyck and Ingalls will vote with the body of the democrats against confirmation. In this case the determination of the question will rest with two members of the independent party in the senate, David Davis and Mahone.

DOYLE'S BONDS.

Doyle, convicted of having in his possession counterfeit bonds, offers to prove conclusively the genuineness of the $1,000 bond plate, how it was obtained and all about it, provided the government will release him from confinement. The present investigation at the treasury is for the purpose of ascertaining the character of this plate, whether it is good transfer work or merely a counterfeit, and if the former to ascertain how it was obtained from the bureau of engraving and printing, and to place the responsibility where it belongs. Secretary Folger and other treasury officials deny in the most positive terms that there are any spurious bonds in circulation, on the ground that if any were in circulation they certainly would have known something about it before now. Doyle's friends claim he is innocent and misjudged, in the transaction and they will prove it to the satisfaction of the government. They state the bonds found in Doyle's possession are not counterfeit, but bonds printed from a genuine plate the issue of which, however, was not authorized by law.

MELVILLE'S LETTERS.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Lieutenant Danenhower has received information by mail from Irkutsk to the effect that letters from Engineer Melville, giving the particulars of finding the bodies of De Long and his men, have reached them by a courier from the Lena Delta. In a memorandum found on De Long, and bearing the date of October 18th, it is stated four of the party were dead and Collins was dying.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Hon. W. A. Newell, governor of Washington Territory, is here looking after the interests of his people. He states that emigrants are settling at the rate of 1,500 per day, and that the Northern Pacific railway will be completed to the Pacific ocean within two years. The agricultural and manufacturing interests are rapidly developing themselves well with the advanced progress of the construction of railroads and the immense immigration. Eight of the largest steamships that ply between San Francisco and the Columbia river are stopping at the principal ports of Washington Territory and Oregon.

CABINET MEETING.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—All members of the cabinet were present at the meeting today except Secretary Chandler. The declination of Phelps to serve as member of the tariff commission was announced, and the names of several persons considered in connection with the position thus left vacant, but no selection was made. The Utah commission bill was also considered with a view to determining the membership of the commission, but no conclusion was reached. It seems that while congress provided for the amount of compensation to be allowed the membership of this commission, no appropriation was made out of which they can be paid. Congress will be called upon to remedy this defect before the members of the commission are nominated.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

A bill passed authorizing the postmaster general to extend mail routes at pro rata additional pay any distance not to exceed twenty-five miles beyond either terminal point named in the contract, the consent of the contractor to be obtained prior to the extension, and no contract to be extended beyond the original terminal points more than during the original term of contract.

The Japanese indemnity fund bill was taken up, discussed and again went over without action.

After a short executive session the senate adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

The committee on appropriations agreed to commend non-concurrence of the house in senate amendments to the army appropriation bill. The house then went into a committee of the whole on the legislation appropriation bill. Atkins explained the bill and it was read for amendment.

Burrows moved to equalize salaries of house and senate employes by reducing the salaries of the latter. Agreed to.

The item appropriating $2,300,000 for salaries and expenses of internal revenue agents and surveyors and expenses of gaugers, and for salaries of store keepers having been reached, White, of Kentucky, stated his objection thereto, and at his request the item was passed over until the remainder of the bill was considered. The committee rose and recess was taken.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

It is understood Trescott will refuse testimony regarding his instructions without the consent of the state department and the president.

General Scoville, author of the temperance plank in the Ohio platform, is here. He says republicans will carry Ohio in spite of unfavorable predictions.

A sub committee of the house committee on elections, in the South Carolina contested election case, (Small, republican, against Tillman, democrat), has decided that Tillman, the sitting member, was not elected.

Lowe, the Alabama greenbacker, recently seated in the place of the ex-confederate general, Wheeler, works with the republicans and will probably be re-elected by their aid. He says he hopes Wheeler will be the candidate against him.

The elections committee will consider the case of Samuel Lee, republican, against J. T. Richardson, the sitting democratic member from a South Carolina district, to-morrow. Lee's case is said to be exceedingly strong, and the probabilities are that Richardson will be unseated.

The senate committee on post-offices and post-roads has been considering the propriety and advisability of reducing postage on letters to two cents and on newspapers and other printed matter to one-half of present rates, and ask the postmaster-general if the proposed rates can be adopted with safety.

Blaine's enemies have been attacking him over the request made for $90,000 for secret service abroad, supposing there was some dark business about Peruvian affairs. It now turns out that the money was asked by Frelinghuysen for the purpose of watching American interests in the Panama canal scheme.

Special Agent Chamberlain, of the treasury department, reports the disturbed condition of the sugar trade due to artificial coloration of imported sugars, by which high grades are imported at a low rate of tariff, and being refined are exported with a large drawback to importers and refiners. The system is driving honest operatives out of business.

OREGON ELECTION.

Newspaper Comments on the Canvass—Importance of the Result.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The Tribune says gleefully: "The gain of a republican senator in Oregon is of great importance. It assures a republican majority in the United States senate until after the new president takes his seat on March 4, 1885, whether the republicans hold or lose their control of the house of representatives. In the meantime the senate is secure and secure by what promises to be a safe majority."

The Time's says: The result of the election in Oregon will disappoint many democratic demagogues who have predicted the first political canvass in Pacific states since the turmoil over the anti-Chinese bill would be a signal rebuke to the perfidy of the republican party. It was expected that the democrats would sweep the state. The democrats have been swept. Outside of large centers of population it was thought Oregon was very largely democratic in political sentiment. If failure of the first bill to suspend Chinese immigration had deeply moved the people their anger and dissappointment would have been manifest at this election. But returns show that the democrats, who have loudly vaunted themselves as the only sincere supporters of radical anti-Chinese legislation, have gained nothing by their excess of zeal. They have not inflamed the voters of Oregon to any great extent.

The World's Washington special says: The Oregon election appears to have been carried by the republicans by the usual republican methods of money expenditures, the republicans actively encountering not only democratic poverty, but democratic inactivity. The republicans of Oregon had a superabundance of aid from outside states, Oregon democrats had none. Though Oregon has for some years been a republican state, the legislature elected this year should have been democratic. The democrats should learn that the hour of danger for them is the hour of over-confidence and nothing is accomplished without painstaking.

State News.

DENVER, June 9.—A Silver Cliff special says the Duryee furnace was fired up Wednesday for another test, and ore fed in the cylinder Thursday at the rate of two tons per hour. The result of the day's work was most satisfactory, and that a stand success is probable Manager Ogden feels confident.

The postoffice at Nepiesta, thirty miles east of Pueblo, was robbed early Wednesday morning of everything valuable, the loss being estimated at $500.

A Buena Vista special says the corner stone of the new court house was laid yesterday. Governor Pitkin, General Stimson, Mayor Morris, of Denver, Col. Moore and Treasurer Sanders made speeches.

The police began a raid on lottery men yesterday and have closed up every policy shop in the city. Sixteen arrests were made.

General Manager Kimball and Solicitor P. Appleton of the Union Pacific left for the east this morning and the looked-for railroad war has not broken out. It has been definitely settled that the Burlington trains will run in and out of the Denver union depot as soon as passenger trains begin running, about July 1. C. M. Hampson, chief clerk of the office of the general passenger agent of the Denver and Rio Grande, has been appointed general passenger agent of the Denver and New Orleans.

The Denver Postoffice.

DENVER, June 9.—The Denver Times' Washington special says: "One would think the Denverites did not care where their new postoffice is to be located, as only two bids as yet have been received in Washington, and all bids are to be opened on Monday. These two bids are believed to be from localities that do not stand the ghost of a show for getting the building. The fight has narrowed down to the Tabor and English companies' corners. The bids on these two localities are not yet in. Each faction is holding back to the last, and each will make a desperate fight in a final effort to-morrow."

BROOKFIELD BANK ROBBERS.

The Gang Surrounded and Finally Captured.

ST. LOUIS, June 9.—The Republican's Brookfield special says: Pursuit of the bank robbers has been continued vigorously to-day and latest accounts are that the gang is surrounded a point four miles northeast of Macon by five hundred men from Lynn, Sullivan, Macon and Adair counties, and while they have kept their pursuers at bay so far by their heavier arms, their capture is considered certain. Two of the pursuing party have been slightly wounded and one of the robbers is known to be badly hurt. The robbers are now known to be men who have been stopping on the Harper farm near Kirksville some days prior to the robbery. A train with armed men will soon leave for the place where the robbers are surrounded. It is believed the latter have no possible chance to escape. If they attempt to break through the line they will be shot down without mercy. The whole country is up in arms and men leave their fields, stores and workshops to hunt the desperadoes down. The exact amount lost by the bank is $1,702. Five hundred dollars reward is offered for the capture of the robbers.

KANSAS CITY, June 9.—A special from Brookfield says: For but one hour since the raid was made have the robbers been lost sight of by their pursuers, and then the trail was quickly found and followed till the bandits were forced into a log hut in the depth of a forest about thirteen miles southwest of Kirksville, Adair county, where they fortified themselves and made loop holes in the sides of the house by knocking out the plaster between the logs. From this point the robbers opened fire on their blockaders and three horses were shot and two men hit with bullets, one getting a ball through the hand which afterwards imbedded itself in the stock of his rifle. All night long the posse guarded the house, expecting the men to make a dash for liberty under the cover of the night, but no such attempt was made. It would have been a sorry failure, for in the bright moonlight every entrance or exit to the house was plainly visible to the watchers in the woods, while the shades of the thickly-leaved trees kept the watchers hidden from the prisoners in the hut. Nothing occurred during the night and day dawned with sleepless men both inside and out of the improvised fort. At 6 o'clock this morning, however, the desperadoes called out that they were willing to surrender provided they could be guaranteed safe conduct to jail. They expressed themselves as decidedly averse to being lynched and insisted on a fair trial, much after Captain Jack in the Java beds. After a short consultation the sheriff announced the terms of their proposition were accepted and they were told to march out with hands up. Fearing a ruse the guard was kept upon all sides of the house and a strong line drawn up in front of the door and sufficiently under cover to be safe in case of treachery on the part of the prisoners. Soon the door opened and the man with the long nose appeared with hands only partially raised. The members of the posse had little confidence however, and a hundred weapons clicked as they were brought to bear on him. His hands went up high right off. Then the other three followed him out and the sheriff went forward and deprived them of their weapons. Seven revolvers and two knives were found. After some consultation among the officers it was decided not to leave with the prisoners until further reinforcements could be received, as there is a pretty general belief that the woods are full of armed desperadoes, friends of the bandits, who would attempt a rescue on the way to jail. About 5 o'clock this afternoon reinforcements arrived from Kirksville and Brookfield, and the party went to Kirksville, where they took the train for Brookfield, about 40 miles distant. The robbers gave the names of James and Frank Mason, Fox and Wood. The two former are known at Brookfield. At the instance of Governor Crittenden Dick Little, a pardoned member of the old James gang, went to Brookfield to-night to ascertain whether any of the old gang are members of this band.

Iowa Greenbackers

DES MOINES, June 9.—General Weaver was made chairman of the greenback state convention. The committee on resolutions reported opposition to national banks and in favor of the general government issuing legal tender notes. They were opposed to refunding the interest on the bonded debt of the country during unlimited coinage of gold and silver, opposed to railroad and telegraph monopolies, in favor of land for actual settlers only, in favor of rights of labor, in favor of amendment to patent laws to protect innocent users against all monopoly, in favor of revision of the tariff in the interest of American labor, in favor of temperance. The following ticket was nominated: Treasurer, Geo. Dorr; auditor, G. W. Wyant; attorney general, J. H. Tyce; judge of supreme court, M. H. Jones.

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

Davitt and Young sailed yesterday for the United States.

Forest fires are raging in Wisconsin. The country is greatly alarmed.

About 100 men in the tube mill of the Reading, Pennsylvania, iron works, quit work yesterday.

A Crawfordsville, Ind., special says: The republicans of the eighth district to-day renominated Congressman Peirce.

James R. Keene offered $15,000 for Henlopen, winner of the Juvenile stakes at Jerome park, and was refused.

The democratic state central committee of Ohio, has decided to hold a state convention at Columbus, July 20th.

The California silk factory and four dwellings south of San Francisco, burned yesterday morning. Loss $75,000.

The state wool growers association of Texas has adopted a resolution not to support any man for congress who don't advocate the protection of wool.

A hail storm at Laredo, Texas, last night, broke in the walls of Barberock hall. One man was killed, one dangerously and another seriously hurt. There is great damage to crops and sheep.

E. Gunn and S. Goodrich, inmates who fired the Ohio asylum for imbecile youths, November, 1881, by which the state lost some $300,000, were acquitted of arson on the ground of insanity.

Fred W. Newburgh, the forger, who secured $20,000 from the Ohio treasury, against whom 54 indictments were returned, was taken to the penitentiary for six years, having pleaded to two indictments only.

The sheriff of Hancock county, West Virginia, has made a requisition on Governor Jackson for one hundred and fifty stands of arms, to be used to prevent the coming prize fight between James Weeden and Owen Malone.

It is said the Irondale strikers are quarrelling among themselves. The poorer paid class of workmen are complaining that those who got large wages are using them to get a big advance. They are tired of a strike conducted on such principles.

The Italians of St. Louis have decided to have a grand parade and hold a memorial service Tuesday next, in respect to Garibaldi. All the Italian societies in the city will participate. Societies of other nationalities will be invited to take part.

RUBY REVELATION.

The Rock Creek District and the Coal Lands of Gunnison County.

LAKE, June 6, 1882.

From the Regular Correspondent of the Gazette.

The greater part of our camp is yet covered with snow and the ground flooded with water; there is, in consequence, little doing in the mines, compared with what would be if the ground was dry. A number of tunnels are being run, and other development going on, but, so far as I know, the Forest Queen is the only mine producing at present. It will be several weeks before there can be much output from other mines.

A very rich body of ore was reached in the Queen some days ago, which still holds out.

The Pioneer reduction works of this place is now under the management of a Mr. Butters, a practicable mill man from California. They are now receiving 100 tons of low grade ore from the Forest Queen, and will start up in a few days. Mr. Butters is confident he can treat twenty-five ounce ore so as to make it an object to the mine-owners to save ore of this grade. Those large and complete works in the hands of a practical man will be of the greatest benefit to the camp, as they will give a market for much ore that has been worthless heretofore, because of transportation.

I returned a few days since from a trip to Rock creek. There, and at points between, I found the people had been mustering in great expectations of the present summer and the future. In each I found they had at least some ground for being so sanguine of their particular locality.

Crested Butte, if I may judge from conversations heard, is making pretensions of being a mining town of other minerals besides coal, and striving to be the distributing point for almost all the Elk mountain region. With a vigorous push towards this end this summer, their expectations are likely to be in a large measure realized. The town company are sparing no expense to make the place desirable and attractive. Seeing the ground everywhere covered with grass and flowers, it was hard to realize I had left the snow of Ruby but an hour before.

Gothic has not changed much since I was there a year and a half before, but like all other mining towns of Gunnison county, it has felt the want of cheap reduction or transportation of ore. The Copper Creek mines are directly tributary, and all whom I have seen from Conundrum, say the best and most feasible route by which they can be reached is up Copper creek. I met here Capt. Bunn and others from Colorado Springs. The captain seems now to be giving most of his time and means to toll roads, and in road making, it is everywhere to be seen, he is a success. He is at present thinking of making a road from Scofield down Rock creek; a task the whole Rock Creek community have thus far shrunk from.

The Rock Creek region is the most inaccessible of any part of Gunnison county. It was here the first discoveries of an extensive silver region in the Elk mountains were made, but owing to difficult access, and the expense of getting ore to market progress has been slow. Scofield was laid out two years ago, and yet contains but few houses. Its elevation is high, 10,250 feet, but otherwise pleasantly situated, and being surrounded on all sides with silver-bearing mines, cannot but prosper from this ore, as it is now connected by good wagon roads to the railroad at Crested Butte. A smelter was started here two years ago, but on the death of Mr. Scofield work stopped. Arrangements are now made for its completion. From a short distance below Scofield, the fall of the creek is very rapid, and for this reason a portion of the ores of the Rock Creek region will, in time, find an outlet the other way, but those about and above Scofield, and on the higher mountains north and west, will ever be most easily reached from East or Slate rivers. The discoveries being made in Snowmass mountain were one of the excitements of Scofield when I was there. It is but two or three miles distant.

Several sacks of bituminous coal have been brought up from the North Gunnison. Where this was brought from it is claimed there are fifteen distinct veins, ranging from two and a half to twenty-seven feet thick. The coal from the several veins is very similar in quality, save that three have been metamorphosed, and have the appearance of being, and withstand the tests of pure coke. One of the coke veins is twelve feet thick. The coal appears to be identical in kind and quality to that of Crested Butte, and so far as can be judged by burning, is quite equal as a coking coal.

Large tracts of anthracite and a coal equally hard and bright, but which burns with great flame without swelling or softening, are said to have been found on Rock creek, and the Roaring Fork of the Grand river. Anthracite has long been known to exist there. What the inflammable is, I cannot say. It is supposed to be cannel coal, but differs in appearance from any I have ever seen.

COLORADO'S EXPOSITION.

An Enterprise of Importance to the Development of the Rocky Mountain Region.

Undoubtedly the most important event of the present year in it bearing upon the development of our Rocky mountain region, will be the exposition, to be held in Denver during August and September next. Properly speaking, we must call it the first annual exhibition of the National Mining and Industrial Exposition; for the plans of the management contemplate a permanent exhibition, with the added feature of special annual displays. Arrangements, for long time past in progress, are being rapidly completed, and the success of the enterprise seems well assured. The rising walls of the permanent building are an object of interest to all approaching Denver from the south, and a portion of the roof is already in place. In its plans it resembles the new National museum building at Washington, D. C., and will be composed of stone, brick, iron and glass. In shape it is to be cruciform, 500 feet long and 316 feet wide, with ample galleries. The height of the main portion will be 84 feet. A central dome will surmount the whole edifice, and observation towers will ornament its ends. The floor space will comprise 150,000 square feet, while galleries, annexes and special buildings will furnish a total of three or four times his amount. The building is to cost $135,000; it is expected that fully $200,000, in all, will be expended before the exhibition is opened to the public. The grounds comprise forty acres, which are being graded and ornamented.

Every effort is being made to make the initial exhibition a grand sucess. It is confidently expected that President Arthur will preside at the opening. Music will be furnished by Theodore Thomas' renowned orchestra. The world has been invited to participate in the exhibition, and an act of congress has been passed exempting from import duty all foreign displays. Space is now being assigned, and the state at large is manifesting a lively interest in the enterprise. Men of wealth and influence are at its head, among whom may be mentioned Gov. Tabor, W. A. H. Loveland, Herman Silver, S. T. Armstrong, H. D. Perky and Hon. F. W. Pitkin. These names not only inspire confidence but give assurance that every promise will be kept.

The high aim of the exposition is to show to the world the various and wonderful resources of the far west. Besides the precious metals there are many native products within this wide region, all with more or less commercial value, that are now wholly or partially neglected. These hidden treasures must be brought to light and their full value ascertained. When this has been accomplished it is confidently believed that many new industries will be established here, convenient at once to the raw material and the market for the finished product. The annual report of the Denver board of trade furnishes some instructive figures, of interest in this connection. We learn that 206,407,000 pounds of iron goods were imported into Colorado during 1881, at a cost for transportation of some $8,262,500. Yet we have here iron ore in sufficient quantities to supply the world. During the same time 3,604,000 pounds of leather and leather goods were imported, while 2,568,000 pounds of hides and pelts were exported. Cement to the amount of 4,624,000 pounds was imported, while the raw materials for its manufacture are abundant throughout the state. Colorado last year exported tallow to the amount of 1,864,000 pounds and imported 2,834,000 pounds of candles. 182,000 pounds of lead pipe were hauled into the largest lead-producing state in the union.

These illustrations, which might be greatly multiplied, serve to give an idea of the wonderful possibilities in the line of manufacture that await the employment of energy and skill. That the exposition will do much in directing public attention to these matters cannot be doubted. But not the least important of the aims of the management is the endeavor to place on a more stable business basis the great mining industry of the Rocky mountain region. If that can be rescued, even in a measure, from the dishonest and ultra-speculative methods that have been its curse, a vast and far-reaching good will have been accomplished.

The classification of exhibits is adequate and exhaustive, and the display from each county of our state promises to be creditable. Coloradans will obtain better and more just conceptions of their state, while visitors from afar, we can safely predict, will find cause for astonishment in the exposition of its wealth and abundant resources.

Nationalization of Land.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Davitt, in a speech in Liverpool, proposed the nationalization of the land of Ireland by abolishing all taxation except on land values.

LONDON, June 8.—In a speech in Cork, tonight, Davitt explained that his object in going to the United States was to make an appeal to the world to support Anna Parnell and the ladies of the land league, and also to contradict the rumors of a split in the league movement.

A Mine on Fire.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 9. The mine of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre coal company is on fire. One hundred men are employed in fighting the flames. At the time the fire was first discovered a large number of miners were in the shaft, and compelled to travel through abandoned workings in order to make their escape. This is the third time the mine has been on fire, and it is known as an extremely troublesome colliery.

Egyptian Demonstration.

CAIRO, June 9.—The military party had arranged a sort of demonstration for Dervisch Pasha. Several hundred youths of the lower classes ran before and behind the cortege, shouting, "Allah!" "Make Islam victorious!" "Allah!" "Destroy the heathens!" They also grossly insulted the European spectators. The khedive and commission have exchanged visits with the four British iron-clads which have arrived at Alexandria.

All the Chicago landlords arrested for renting rooms to gamblers have been discharged.

It is said that John S Phelps of Missouri, one of the tariff commissioners, will refuse to serve.

Greeley has just completed a beautiful and convenient hotel at a cost of $80,000. Colorado Springs will not be long behind her.

Over fifteen hundred clerks will be thrown out of employment by the closing out of A. T. Stewart & Co.'s business at the end of the present month.

In view of the result of the Oregon election, Gen. Rosecrans will need a few more indorsers to pull through. What an old humbug he is anyhow.

The repeal by the Mexican congress of the export duty upon silver coin and bullion will probably increase the investment of United States capital in the mines of that country.

Last year $60,000,000 was required to pay pensions, and treasury officials say that $150,000,000 will be needed this year. Well, perhaps it's as good a way as any to put money into circulation.

Another glorious shower last evening gave a fresh impetus to the growth of the already luxuriant grasses on the range. A large quantity of public provender will be converted into private pelf this year.

It is said that the Daryea furnace of Silver Cliff promises to be an entire success in treating low grade ores. It is still too soon to grow enthusiastic over the operations, as no clean-up has yet been made.

The death of ex-Governor Lucius Robinson of New York will be severely felt by the democracy of the Empire state. Mr. Robinson was an able, upright man, and deservedly popular with those who appreciate such qualities in a leader.

Certain Pennsylvania democrats are getting ready to spring General Hancock upon the state convention as a candidate for governor. The great split in the republican party of that state has inspired the democracy with some hopes of success.

Two kinds of documents, it is said, were sent from Washington to influence the Oregon election. The republicans of the capital sent greenbacks; the democrats sent anti-Chinese circulars. The republicans won. The circulars were not legal tender.

One and a quarter inches of rain fell in the neighborhood of Fort Collins last week. The farmers in that section say that small grain will need but one irrigation this season, and with a good rain toward the latter part of June corn will not have to be irrigated at all.

A fellow by the name of Rich is lecturing on Jesse James in Missouri. Jesse's mother and wife go along to add to the attractions of the show. His first lecture was to an audience of fifty, which rapidly melted away when he began his panegyric of the illustrious thief and murderer.

The star-route conspirators are not so anxious to "get before a jury and have their complete innocence established" as they were a year ago. They regard Judge Wylie's rulings as a manifestation of "indecent haste." The judge is acting as though he regarded their former demands for "vindication" as still in force.

The five independent republican candidates in Pennsylvania have eight legs; the five regulars have nine legs. If legs are necessary to good running, the latter ought to get there first. By the way the appellation "kickers" applied to the legless independents, seems to us a misnomer.

It appears that it has not yet been definitely decided to locate the Grant smelter at Pueblo. Mr. Eddy says that such rumor is not correct. It will not however be rebuilt at Leadville. It looks now as though the competition for the works between Denver and Pueblo may result greatly to the advantage of the Grant company. As a thousand men are employed in various capacities about the works, they are well worth bidding for.

The State Horticultural society will hold its annual exhibition in Denver on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 20, 21 and 22. We hope to see Colorado Springs well represented there. Last year we brought back several prizes and ought to do better this year. The Greeley Tribune calls the attention of its readers to the exhibit from this city last year and urges the fruit growers of Greeley to enter into the beneficent contest. That city should not be surpassed by any locality in the state in a display of fruit. The fine soil and energetic and intelligent horticulturalists ought to put her in the van in the army of fruit-growers.

We believe that the organization of a board of trade by our merchants, as is now proposed, will be promotive of much good. It will enable them to act promptly and harmoniously upon such matters as effect their business, and to which too little attention has been given in the past. The subject of freight rates to Colorado Springs, which was discussed at the meeting on Thursday, is one of the first importance. It is essential that we should be placed upon the same footing with Pueblo and Denver if we are to build up a trade of more than a very contracted local character. To bring this about, the merchants of this city must bend their united efforts and energies. The discussion on Thursday plainly showed the influence that in the past has been exerted against us. This influence must be counteracted or placated. The business men of Colorado Springs ask only for a fair chance. They want to be placed upon the scratch with their rivals in Pueblo and Denver. They desire no other favor. The commercial agent of a large eastern house said to us a few days ago that in no town in Colorado were the merchants more enterprising or better up in their respective lines of business than in this city. Their success in the face of a heavy handicap, is evidence of the truth of this.

LUXURY IN RAIL TRAVEL.

Who Rids in Special Cars, And What It Costs.

New York Times.

Old Commodore Vanderbilt used to ride over his roads in a car that he considered pretty fine and becoming his station as a railroad king. That car is now owned by the Wagner Car company, and leaves the Grand Central depot in this city at 3:55 o'clock every afternoon for Chicago. It bears the name Iroquois, and any one may ride in it who pays his passage. In these times it is looked upon as a rather plain car, and none too good for even common travel. Since the days when the old commodore was whirled over the rails and gave his engineers ten-dollar gold pieces when they made unusually fast runs great improvements have been made in car architecture. People not worth a thousandth part what the commodore was ride in better cars every time they take a trip than the old railroad king did. It costs from $15,000 to $20,000 to build a palace car nowadays, according to the style in which it is finished, and it is safe to say that the commodore's car cost scarcely more than half the first sum. Cars are now built so that the owner of one, if he were so inclined, could live on the railroad from one end of the year to the other. The accommodations, to be sure, are more limited than in the average home built upon the solid earth, but the cars are so constructed that comforts are afforded which one would hardly expect to find in such meagre space. Three cars have just been built by the Pullman Palace Car company which are, indeed, palaces on wheels. One was constructed for Hugh J. Jewett, the president of the Erie railway; another for Henry Villard, the president of the Oregon Railway and Navigation company; and the third for T. W. Pierce, the president of the Sunset route, in Texas. These cars form houses in miniature. At the forward end of each car is a kitchen; back of this a parlor, which serves as a dining room; adjoining a bed room, with bath room attached, and at the rear end a smoking room and observatory. Berths are also supplied in different parts of the cars, and electric bells connect with the kitchen and servant's quarters. The cars are handsome in the extreme. That of Mr. Jewett, the Ramapo, may be taken as an example. It is heavily inlaid with costly woods and magnificently upholstered. These cars cost about $20,000 each.

The car of Mr. William H. Vanderbilt is one of the largest in the country. It is 74 feet in length, 9 feet 10 inches wide, and 14 feet six inches high. It is divided into four main apartments. At the front is the kitchen, and back of it Mr. Vanderbilt's state room. The sitting and dining room and the card room follow. At the extreme rear is the observatory, with inclosed sides and open back. The car is elegantly fitted up, and is provided with electric bells and other conveniences. There are four views on the sides of the car, representing the Grand Central Depot, the improvements at One Hundred and Tenth street and Fourth street, in this city, Niagara Falls and the West Albany bridge of the Central railroad. His car could not be duplicated for less than $18,000 or $20,000. When Mr. Vanderbilt makes a trip he has a special engine, and all other trains must keep out of the way. He travels as fast as it is possible for engines to draw him, and a time table is made up at least twelve hours and sometimes two days before he starts, and is telegraphed along the line. Jay Gould's private car, the Convoy, No. 143, of the Missouri Pacific railroad, is the same one that Commodore Garrison used. It is very large, and has accommodations for twelve. It is finished in black walnut, and, while not strikingly beautiful, is very comfortable. The car of George B. Roberts, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, is supplied with state room, sleeping room, kitchen and other apartments. A. J. Cassatt, the vice-president, and Frank Thompson, the general manager, have cars of similar construction. John W. Garrett, the president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has a car for his exclusive use the Maryland—and Robert Garrett, his son, the third vice-president, another—the Baltimore. The president of nearly every road of consequence in the country has a car of his own of more or less elegance, but none can compare with those mentioned. The queen of England does not ride in such magnificence as the railway magnates of America. In fact, all who are able to pay their way can ride on any road of importance in greater style than Victoria, for it is well known that foreign cars will not bear comparison with American ones. The working officers of railroads in the west live in cars for a week or more at a time. It is not for luxury, but is a matter of necessity. The distances are long, the cating places are few and far between, and there is business to be transacted at widely different points. Some railroad systems comprise 2,500 or 3,000 miles of road, and, as may be seen, it takes some time to go over them. Almost all roads have directors' cars, which are used by the directors once a year in making an inspection of their roads. The remainder of the time the superintendents or other officers use the cars. Directors of western roads living in the east have the directors' cars sent on to them and take them to the annual meetings and bring them back.

Others besides railroad officers ride in special cars. The Pullman Palace Car company has, besides its coaches in regular service, one car especially intended for the use of families of private parties. This car is a house on wheels, and is similar in construction to the Rumapo. It bears no inscription save the monogram "P. P. C." It has accommodations for ten persons, and is complete in every respect. The main saloon is furnished like a parlor, and is supplied with an organ. The Pullman company charges $85 a day for the use of this car, which includes the services of a conductor, a cook and two waiters. Besides this, the person hiring the car, or in fact any car, must buy 18 full tickets of the railroad line over which the car passes for hauling it. The car is usually attached to a regular train, and if a special engine is secured, which is rarely the case, the expense is greatly increased. Provisions and liquors are supplied by the Pullman company at cost, or the person to whom the car is let may stock it himself. Sleeping cars are let at the rate of $65 a day, including a conductor and a porter, and hotel cars at $75 a day, including a conductor, cook and two waiters. The Pullman company also has two hunting and fishing cars. One is named the Davy Crockett and the other the Izaak Walton. The charge for these cars is $85 a day, which includes a cook and waiter for each. The cars are provided with kennels for dogs, and are in every way adapted for the use to which they are put. They are somewhat smaller than the ordinary cars, but are plenty large enough for hunting and fishing parties of eight or ten. These cars are in steady demand during the sporting season. Mr. Jerome Marble, of Worcester, Mass., built a hunting car for his own use and to let. His venture proved so successful that he has constructed two more. His charges are about the same as those of the Pullman company. Noblemen coming to America frequently hire a special car to make a trip across the continent. The Grand Duke Alexis, the Duke of Sutherland and the Baron de Streute, the Russian ambassador, are among those who have made trips in American special cars. Dom Pedro made his tour in a Pullman hotel car. The Brazilian emperor marvelled at the magnificence of the hotel cars which are now attached to through trains on all the great lines.

It is a common thing to see a special car on the rail. Rich Americans ride this way in making long journeys, and people do not wonder at it here half as much as they would across the water. When a party of ten or twelve is made up to go from New York to San Francisco, for instance, the expense is no greater, if as much, to hire a special car, with cooks and waiters, than it would be to ride in an ordinary palace car and stop at first-class hotels on the way. Special cars are used more on the roads across the plains than in the east, on account of the distance between eating stations and the lack of superior hotel accommodations. When a whole train is chartered for any particular occasion the rates are made according to the distance and the number of cars. The estimated cost of running an engine, including engineer and firemen, is 25 cents a mile, and no road will send out an engine, no matter how short the run, for much less than $25. It is not always that a railroad magnate has a special engine. Generally the car is attached to a regular train. Little is to be gained by using a special engine. The schedule time of trains on well-constructed roads is so fast nowadays that it is impossible to better it, and a car attached to one of these trains is just as exclusive as it would be by itself. There are some trains that are reserved for common travel, and which people travelling in special cars can not enjoy the advantages of. These are the limited trains. They are made up of a certain number of cars, the full number that an engine can haul and make schedule time—and even the officers of roads do not presume to use their authority to attach their cars to them and run the risk of delaying them. A great many people who ride in special cars enjoy the "courtesy" of railroad companies owing to business relations, or for other reasons, and are not asked to pay for having their cars hauled. Again, on some roads, besides the eighteen full tickets, the occupants of the cars are compelled to pay bridge tolls. A few roads run over bridges owned by corporations, for which privilege they are obliged to pay as much for each car. There are a few lateral roads which only charge twelve tickets, but eighteen is the rule.

The use of special cars has greatly increased in the last two years. The railroad companies themselves do not have special cars to let. The palace car companies conduct this branch of the business entirely.

OUR "HOME"

Report of the Committee on Certain Charges of Mismanagement.

At the last meeting of the board of trustees of the Home for Friendless Children, a committee appointed to investigate into certain charges made against the management of the "Home," made the following report. We were requested to publish the report at the time, but it was in some way mislaid and not found until yesterday.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Home for Friendless Children May 2, 1882, it was

Resolved, That the communication and the petition connected therewith be referred to a special committee of five, two from the board and three from outside, for investigation, to report at the next regular meeting

The committee to which, according to the foregoing resolution was referred the communication of Mrs Mary S Rice and the accompanying petition, having met and investigated the same, beg leave to report as follows

On perusal of the communication, as it seemed impracticable to investigate satisfactorily without arranging its subject matter in definite statements, the complaints were formulated in the following manner

1st. The incompetency of Lila Byington to act in the position she holds

2d That Mr Lynch's children had no proper instruction in study or work being less advanced in their studies when they left than when they entered the Home that they were cruelly and frequently punished by those in charge, that they were never allowed to see their father alone

3d Domestic mismanagement as shown in an untidy house and personal appearance of the children

4th Constant effort to conceal the true state of the Home by excluding visitors, except under great restrictions

5th Dissatisfaction of parents having children there evidenced by their removal of them whenever possible to do so

Every effort practicable was made to secure the testimony of all persons having knowledge of the matter under consideration and and these being called upon to testify upon the foregoing complaints severally, it appears upon the 1st, That Miss Byington does not hold the office of assistant matron, but is employed in the Home under the direction of the matron helping to care for the children performing various household duties as occasion requires, also instructing children in their daily studies and that she is competent to fill this position

Upon the 2d, That the "Home" is not primarily educational in its designs but in the advantages afforded, Mr Lynch's children were equal sharers with the others. The testimony shows that they were neither cruelly or frequently punished Mr Lynch states that he never asked to see his children alone

Upon the 3d That was visiting the Home at all times of day and under all circumstances consider it is well kept as houses in general During sickness in the house it has been at times unavoidably untidy and disorderly The general appearance of the children showed that they were as well cared for as could be expected in an institution of so recent establishment and limited means

Upon the 4th There is no truth in any that visitors were excluded intentionally on the contrary visitors have been cordially received and conducted to all parts of the house

Upon the 5th There is no evidence not even in the case of Mr Lynch to prove that parents have removed their children on account of dissatisfaction with the management of the children

In regard to the petition signed by thirty four ladies, asking that a visiting committee of ladies be selected from the different churches of the city as a safeguard in the management of the Home, your committee find from the testimony brought before them, that the board of directors have a standing committee whose duty it is to look after the management of the Home. We would recommend, for the purpose of bringing the institution more generally before the public, and of lightening the burdens of the few who at present serve in that capacity, that others be associated with the committee, at the discretion of the board, and that their duties include the oversight of the domestic management of the Home, also the consideration of the intellectual and spiritual welfare of the children

The Strike

PITTSBURG, June 9 The iron situation is devoid of anything startling Both sides remain firm and preparations are being made for a long siege From all quarters come reports of iron workers organizing fishing clubs and they propose to camp out all summer. Mills are still undergoing repairs and a number of establishments have sent horses to the country for pasturage The mining situation is also quiet

17-Year-Old Boy Lynched

CHICAGO, June 9 —A Perham, Minn, special says. John Tibbets, the 17-year-old boy who murdered Washing and Fohrback a few days since, was brought here yesterday and examined before Justice Roltpilltz Towards night the propriety of lynching him was freely discussed, but nothing was done about 2 o'clock this afternoon, however, seventy resolute men broke into the jail and with difficulty broke open his cell and grasped him "Don't boys, this is too rough," he said The lynchers then carried him to the railroad track, a few rods away, rested a ladder against a telegraph pole, looped one end of the rope around his neck, then threw it over a round of the ladder and hoisted away. He was dead in a few minutes. The lynchers kept the crowd back with drawn revolvers. As soon as the work was done they scattered in all directions. Tibbets made a full confession last night. He laughed at the crowd that met him yesterday morning, but became depressed at night. The lynchers will probably not suffer for their crime

J. M. ELLISON, Agent

Mrs Ira Pierce, accompanied by her sister, arrived in Colorado Springs on the evening train yesterday.

The Rev I C Mackay is expected to preach at Grace church both morning and evening tomorrow.

Senator Harlan, of Iowa, and family, and Secretary of War Robert Lincoln, and wife, will spend part of the summer in Colorado Springs.

Subject for discourse at the Cumberland Presbyterian church tomorrow at 11 a m "The Pure Heart." Evening discourse "The Existence of God."

President Tenney, of Colorado college, has gone east, expecting to remain several weeks. During his absence Mr I W Tuckerman will have charge of his business.

Mr N C Bird, general freight agent of the Wabash line, arrived in the city yesterday in a special car, accompanied by his family. They expect to remain several days in Manitou.

Mr L L Nichols, proprietor of the Cliff house at Manitou, says that business is picking up considerably. He says he is accommodating more guests now than at this time last year.

Mr J M Studebaker, of South Bend Indiana and one of the members of the firm of Studebaker Bros the largest manufacturers of carriages and lumber wagons in the United States was in the city yesterday.

Mr I P Bunnell and wife returned yesterday from a winter's visit to Indiana. Mr Bunnell thinks after a visit to different towns in the east and on the Pacific slope, that this city is far superior to any of them as a place to reside.

The entire committee appointed at the meeting of the merchants on Thursday night consisting of Messrs G S Barnes, Channing Sweet, J W Stillman, A Sutton and L I Sherman went to Pueblo yesterday to meet and confer with the officials of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy in regard to freight rates.

Statistics show that 200,000 pounds of freight is received in Colorado Springs via the Denver & Rio Grande every day, thus giving a monthly aggregate of 6,000,000 pounds. It is estimated that not less than $300,000 a year is paid out by the Colorado Springs merchants and business men for freight. These facts will be presented to the C, B & Q officials.

The meeting of the committee appointed on Thursday night to make preparatory arrangements for the organization of a board of trade was to have held a meeting at D J Martin's store last night, but on account of the absence of one of the members and the inability of the other to attend, the meeting was postponed until Monday night.

On Monday, May 29th, the pastors of the city met in the vestry of the M E Church at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and organized a ministers' meeting, to be known as the Ministerial Association of Colorado Springs and vicinity. It is to be composed of all the ministers of this city and vicinity, that is, all the ministers in the county who desire to become members. It is not for pastors only, but for all ministers. The object of the association is for the spiritual and intellectual improvements of its members. It will meet semi monthly, on the second and fourth Mondays, at 10 o clock a m, in the vestry of the M E church. Next Monday, (June 12), is the time for the first meeting since the organization, and all the ministers are invited to be present. Subject for discussion, "The Spiritual Condition and Needs of the City."

The first race of the 100-yard handicap for the Metcalf and association medals will take place at the association grounds this afternoon, beginning at 3 o clock. Only members of the association are allowed to compete for the medals, and 13 entries have been made. It is expected that these races will be the most interesting ever held in the city. Following the race there will be a game of base ball. Remember that the Herdic coaches will run within a block of the grounds. Mr A. A. Adams, the official handicapper, has given the entrees the following positions

CAVE OF THE WINDS!

Now Open for the Season Of 1882,

Is located in Williams Canon, one mile north from the Mineral Springs in Manitou.

There is no more pleasing or grand sight in Colorado and you miss a wonderful scene if you fail to see it.

There are large stalactites and grand old stalagmites with the most delicate and beautiful flowers. The sight of one room and grotto of the flower of alabaster is worth infinitely more than the expense and trouble of visiting the cave.

There are many rooms for you to visit, among which are Cascade, Canopy, Cathedral and Music Halls, Alabaster Grotto and the famous Bridal Chamber.

The air is pure and there is no water to injure or soil clothing. Wraps and lights furnished and attentive guides. Come and see us.

A PERFECT CORSET

SECURED AT LAST

A combination of Coiled Wire Springs, Whalebone and Corset Jean which is pronounced by our best Physicians less injurious to the wearer than any other Corset made.

Fits perfectly a greater variety of forms than any other.

Yields readily to every respiration and is equally comfortable in any position assumed by the wearer.

Warranted to retain its perfect shape till worn out. By it you secure a more graceful figure than with any other corset. Please give it a single trial and you will wear no other.

What Eminent Chicago Physicians say of it.—

CHICAGO, October 23, 1880.
I have examined BALL'S HEALTH PRESERVING CORSET and believe that it is in every respect best calculated to preserve the health of the women who wear it.

It does not seem to be possible for the wearer of such a corset to be injured by tight lacing. It should receive the favorable endorsement of the Physicians who have the opportunity of examining it.

JAMES NEVENS HYDE.

CHICAGO, October 26, 1880.
I fully endorse what Dr Hyde says in the above note.

W. H. BYFORD.

CHICAGO, October 13, 1880.
I have examined BALL'S HEALTH PRESERVING CORSET, and believe it to be the least injurious to the wearer of any Corset I have seen.

A. J. BAXTER, M. D.

CHICAGO, October 27, 1880.
I do not advise any woman to wear a Corset, but if she will do so—and she generally will—I advise her to use one of BALL'S HEALTH PRESERVING CORSETS as it is less likely to do her injury than any with which I am acquainted.

Pike's Peak Dry Goods Emporium

And buy new and choice goods quite as low as you can buy old goods. Our goods are all marked in plain figures so that every one can see for themselves. There is NO HUMBUG about this. A wise merchant when a dull season comes does not sit down waiting for something to turn up but puts his goods at prices that makes it to the interest of the public to buy and moves his stock in that way. This is what we have done. Come and see.

SPECIAL BARGAINS! SPECIAL.

60 pieces of Musquito Net, all colors, 45 cents per piece, usual price 60 and 65 cents.
One lot of good Calicoes at 5 cents.
Think of entire stock of Wraps comprising every style from Walking Coats at $4 to the richest Satin Mantles at $40 reduced so as to bring a $4 garment to $3 35 and a $40 Wrap to $33 75, and a $40 Ready made Suit to $33 50.

All of our reductions are made fairly from the usual prices. No goods marked for the purpose of reduction.

This is what we have done and these are the inducements we offer.

This great opportunity to supply yourselves with CHEAP and at the same time CHOICE DRESS GOODS will be continued through MAY AND JUNE ONLY.
